Forecast for Wednesday 19 Jan 2022

Weather: A wet and very windy night with rain expected. By dawn the main area of precipitation will have moved south and there will be some brightness. Feeling very cold with the winds veering northwesterly and remaining gale force until late morning. Wintry showers are a possibility but mainly dry through the day, with freezing level falling to 600m by the afternoon.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 700m: 40% in the morning associated with rain moving through, then increasing to 90% with low cloud shrouding the tops in any showers during the afternoon.

Visibility: As rain clears away, visibility may be quite poor initially in the morning but it will become very good. Cloud bases will be broken around 600m at dawn but soon lift and clear in the morning. Around any showers cloud will fall to around 700m temporarily.
